

Budapest Centre
FOR MASS ATROCITIES PREVENTION

Tree for Dialogue

As planned, the Budapest Centre for Mass Atrocities Prevention, in cooperation with the municipalities of Budavár and Budapest planted the first “Tree for Dialogue” in Budapest on 26 March, 2022.

During the event Mrs. Márta Váradiné Naszályi, the mayor of the district of Budavár, Géza Jeszenszky, historian, ex-minister for foreign affairs and György Tatár, the chair of the Budapest Centre delivered speeches.

They called for increasing the efforts to disseminate the culture of dialogue in Hungary for halting the adverse trends of hatred and faction within the society.

The Budapest Centre announced its readiness to cooperate with institutions, organizations and individuals intending to follow the example within and beyond the borders of Hungary.
